Project highlights

Hope Bay Wind

Clean Energy, Indigenous Infrastructure/ Nunavut

A $20M loan supports this Inuit-led energy project in Nunavut's Kitikmeot Region. The project involves construction of a 4.2MW wind turbine and 4MW energy storage facility. Hope Bay Wind is expected to reduce the community's reliance on diesel-based energy and reduce emissions at the Hope Bay Mine, improving energy security and generating long-term revenues for local Inuit communities.

RFNow Saskatchewan UBF

Digital Infrastructure and AI / Saskatchewan

In partnership with RFNow Inc. and CVC DIF, our $34.5M loan creates access to high-speed internet for 7,350 households in rural and underserved communities and five First Nations in Saskatchewan. Our loan is helping close the digital infrastructure gap and allows for high-speed internet service to be deployed faster and at a lower cost, improving access to essential services and business opportunities.
